SIGNIFICANT FINANCIAL INTEREST (SFI) POLICY

In order to comply with the NIH requirements as well as acknowledge University of Washington requirements for faculty, the following definition for Significant Financial is applied:

Significant Financial Interest means any of the following:

- 1) For a Clinical Trial, any Financial Interest
- 2) For Human Subjects Research other than a Clinical Trial (i) any Financial Interest exceeding $5,000 in value, (ii) any Equity Interest; or (iii) any Intellectual Property Interest.
- 3) For all Research other than Human Subjects Research and all Technology Transfer Transactions, (i) any Financial Interest (including a Compensation Interest, an Equity Interest and an Intellectual Property Interest) exceeding $10,000 in value, or (ii) any Equity Interest representing more than a 5% ownership in any single entity.
